Best Books for Summer and Fall

Up to Calvin's A Sequel to the Wooing of Calvin Parks By LAURA E. RICHARDS

The same old lovable down East characters appear, with further incidents and associations. Interestingly written and described as only Mrs. Richards, with her thorough knowledge of the people and locality, can depict. Cloth, illustrated by Frank T. Merrill, 12mo, $1.25.

Wayward Anne By CURTIS YORKE

The plot of "Wayward Anne" is simplicity itself. An unconventional friendship of a man, who is under a cloud, with a girl who believes in him, forms its basis. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

A Labrador Spring By CHARLES WENDELL TOWNSEND, M.D. Author of "Along the Labrador Coast"

The chief study of Dr. Townsend's vacation trip to Labrador was a study of the brief northern spring with its melting snow-banks, its bursting buds and procession of flowers, its migrating birds and Indians and the varied spring activities of its white settlers, fully illustrated by numerous well-chosen photographs taken on the trip. Illustrated, cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

The White River Raft By LEWIS B. MILLER

A largely true story of a logging trip into the flooded forests of Arkansas followed by an eventful raft voyage down the Mississippi. A splendid story full of adventure and excitement. Illustrated by J. W. F. Kennedy. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

The Beautiful England Series

A new exquisite series illustrating the prominent features of picturesque England. The volumes will be printed on fine paper, each containing 48 pages, size 7½ x 9½, of letter-press and 12 colored reproductions of water colors, mounted and inserted as plates, that have been made expressly for the work by Ernest Haslehust. The text is written by well-known and competent writers. Each, boxed, $1.25.

DOES THIS APPEAL TO YOU?

The New York "Times," in a Column Review headed "A Strong, Sincere, Worth-While Novel," says:

"It not only grips the reader and carries him along with it, but it refuses to be pushed out of his memory. Eloquent, vivid pages they are, striking in the course of their swift narration many sparks of criticism and of thought. . . . The book has qualities which make it stand out from the multitude. There is nothing commonplace, nothing meagre or thin about it."

The Rust of Rome

By WARWICK DEEPING

The Boston "Transcript" says:

"Mr. Deeping has written a book that increases one's faith in human nature. It is a very good book to be reading. Wholesome, clear-minded, always delightfully feminine, Eve Thorkell typifies the fine sincerity in which the book is conceived and written."

The Brooklyn "Eagle" says:

"Mr. Deeping must be congratulated upon the excellent quality of his new modern novel. From beginning to end the story moves swiftly and the interest steadily deepens. It is a fine study. . . . Eve is a wholly delightful character, drawn with skill and insight, wholesome and entirely womanly."

NOTES IN SEASON.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY report that Will Levington Comfort's "Routledge Rides Alone" is already on the press for the third edition, and that many people suggest that it be accorded the next Nobel peace prize on account of its ardent anti-war argument.

CASSELL & COMPANY announce that the second printing is ready and a third on the press of Warwick Deeping's "The Rust of Rome," which our best journals have so highly praised. The publishers are offering the dealers a price on which they can make 50 per cent. profit.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY have used up eight large editions of "Barbara Winslow, Rebel," by Beth Ellis, and her new novel, "The Girl Who Won," promises to be liked even better. A Harrison Fisher girl on the cover and pictures in color by the Kinneys make a book most attractive at first sight.

L. W. WALTER COMPANY, 121-127 Plymouth Court, Chicago, has ready "Roosevelt Among the People," by Addison C. Thomas, for many years assistant general manager of the Associated Press, who has been in close touch with Mr. Roosevelt and with public men generally. The book has 64 illustrations.

"THE WILD OLIVE" is reported by the publishers, Harper & Brothers, to be the best selling novel in the United States. It was published, they announce, less than a month when it achieved this distinction. "The Wild Olive" is by the author of "The Inner Shrine," which was the best selling novel for three consecutive months last summer.

SEVEN little tales of the interesting courtships of as many girls will be found in Emily Blake's "Engaged Girl Sketches," which Forbes & Company have just published in attractive form. The binding is of lavender cloth, with a medallion of one of the girls as its chief ornament. There are decorative borders on all the pages, also in lavender.

REILLY & BRITTON Co. have in "Hilda of the Hippodrome" a story that appeals alike to young and old and to both sexes. They are also publishers' selling agents for the Book Supply Company, who are again fortunate enough to have ready in October a new book by Harold Bell Wright, entitled "The Uncrowned King." The author of "The Printer of Udell's," "The Shepherd of the Hills" and "The Calling of Dan Matthews" always writes a noble, wholesome book, and it is pleasant to think that nearly a million copies of them are scattered among our people.

SINCE "The Birch Bark Roll," by Ernest Thompson Seton, and an English publication by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, entitled "Scouting for Boys," are more or less complementary, both having as their aim the highest development of outdoor life, an arrangement has been made between the respective authors of the two books whereby they may be combined into a single volume. Doubleday, Page & Company announce the publication of the American edition of this work, which is entitled "Boy Scouts of America." It is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of woodcraft, scouting, and life-craft ever published, and is the official manual of the "Boy Scouts of America."

LIKE a cool breath from the North comes Dr. Charles W. Townsend's "A Labrador Spring," which Dana Estes & Company have prepared in unusually attractive guise. The book is the record of a five weeks' trip in May and June, 1909, and is interesting not only as a description of a cruise along a portion of the southern Labrador coast beset with islands and abounding in salmon rivers, but also from its human atmosphere of Acadian fishermen, fur traders and Montagnais Indians, and it gives one many glimpses of the picturesque life in these little known regions. The author has made careful studies of the courtship dances of some of the Labrador birds, which are a distinct addition to ornithological lore.

Weekly Record of New Publications

The entry is transcribed from title page when the book is sent by publisher for record. All books sent, unless of slight importance, are given descriptive annotation. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added.

By the author of "The social unrest," "As others see us," etc. Few men of 42 have accomplished as much as the subject of this biography, William Henry Baldwin, jr. With a marked faculty for organizing, a high sense of honor in private and business life, and a gift for getting on with men he was well fitted for the many activities of his life. Beginning in the Union Pacific (before the Harriman control), going on to the Southern Railway, and finally, only eleven years after his graduation from Harvard, becoming president of the Long Island R.R., where he remained until his death, ten years later, his life is one of extraordinary achievement. A leader in tenement house reform, famous for his liberal attitude toward trade unions among his employees, and doing much to improve the condition of the negroes, his interests were many and varied. Bost., Small, Maynard, [1910.] c. 352 p. D. cl., $1.50. The heroine is the daughter of a survivor of the Spanish Armada and a beautiful Scotch girl, whose father is the laird of the Campbells of Killelen, on the shores of whose fastness Don John is cast. Mariposa, the daughter, is a wayward creature, who leads her own clan a dance as well as the MacDonalds, their bitter enemies. In his old age her lover writes her story, telling touching episodes of humble life in the Highlands and introducing a mysterious adventurer, Bordeaux, who quotes Shakespeare on all occasions, and also a canny Glasgow lawyer, both of whom furnish much entertainment.

Mr. Dole is a Unitarian clergyman and is already known through his previous books, "The ethics of progress," "The coming people," etc. In this book he emphasizes the central, universal truths of religion, those truths which, no matter what creed a man professes, he holds in common with all Christendom. That the world is more, not less, religious to-day than it was when church going and outward acts of piety were generally the rule is the author's firm conviction, for he believes that good will and brotherly love animate the world and are doing so increasingly. This is the "coming religion."

A series of interesting letters written from St. Petersburg by Mrs. Lothrop, widow of George Van Ness Lothrop, who was appointed Minister of the United States to Russia by President Cleveland. The book gives an inside view of the social and political life of the Russian Capital, and loses none of its value from the fact that the letters were written with no idea of publication.

The plan on which the results of Mr. Odum's research are presented in this book is "to pass from the more external conditions, through the special religious and social activities of the negro, to his more private life; then to proceed from the more general social life and traits to the discussion of the total problem and to the conclusions." —Preface. The author thinks that for the negroes, perhaps the very first essential is a complete understanding of their own condition, with a clear, implicit, final feeling that the races will develop separately.

Himself a colonial and a member of the Legislative Assembly of Natal, Mr. Silburn has some pertinent things to say on colonial government. He begins his book with a survey of ancient federal governments, and then goes on to British Imperialism, hoping that the lessons taught by history will be applied to Great Britain's immense Empire overseas. He complains that the call for a closer tie between the units of the Empire has been heard for a far longer period in the colonies than in the parent country, and in many colonies is becoming more insistent. If this call is neglected the colonies by degrees develop away from the home government and secession may result. By the author of "The colonies and imperial defense."

Beginning as a typesetter he thoroughly mastered the art of printing in all its branches, making frequent changes in his place of employment, but always to a better position or one where he could learn more, he at last became advertising manager for The Ladies' Home Journal. His success here was tremendous and led to Mr. Frank Munsey offering him an important position. At the end of four weeks Mr. Munsey desired Mr. Thayer's resignation, the letters that passed between them making most interesting reading. He served on the Boston Journal, reformed The Delineator, and incidentally tried to reform American advertising. Then came Everybody's Magazine and his work with Mr. Thomas W. Lawson and Ridgway's. Now, after thirty-five years of work, still on the right side of the half-century mark, he is enjoying a holiday.

The "Lambeth Conference" of 1880 gave expression to the growing feeling for Christian unity that has since found expression in various churches. The chief obstacles to the reunion of the Protestant churches is the hypothesis that episcopacy was the recognized government of the churches of Christ before A.D. 150. Dr. Thompson presents the entire alleged evidence both for and against this hypothesis. The author does not believe in the Apostolic succession and thinks such an hypothesis militates against Christian unity.

The Publishers' Weekly

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT

July 9, 1910

The editor is not responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers should send books promptly for weekly record and descriptive annotation, if possible in advance of publication. The Record of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A FIVE DAY WEEK.

It is not perhaps generally known that one of the biggest publishing houses in the country, The Curtis Publishing Co. of Philadelphia, has given an eighteen months' try-out to a social-economic ideal probably never before realized on so large a scale, namely, a five day working week; and the experiment has been so far remarkably successful.

It is only the past decade that has seen the development of the Saturday half holiday. Even ten years ago a Saturday afternoon off was a comparative luxury; now the publishing house—and the same is true of the majority of metropolitan business houses—which does not close at three in winter and noon in summer is a rarity, and a very large proportion are closing at noon the year round.

The Curtis Publishing Co. faced the problem frankly from a business, not a sentimental point of view. If the employees wished to work a little longer or harder five days a week, and turn out six days' work in that five, they might have Saturday off. They most certainly did!

Since the rest of the world continued on a six day basis, it has been found impracticable to extend the reform to the mailing department; but the entire mechanical force, over a thousand employees, is included.

The problem, of course, was to see if the additional energy and enthusiasm gained by an extra weekday vacation would produce "steam" enough to turn out the same amount of work in the time remaining. So far the company professes itself satisfied.

As for the employees, it is unquestionable that additional time for living, for the expression of individual initiative, for pleasure, or for outdoor sports or work is worth any amount of earnest experiment.

At this time of the year the bookseller finds leisure available to study methods and lay selling plans for the more strenuous selling season which he knows will shortly open.

For this available leisure THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY intends a number of somewhat special numbers, along the lines of our recent "Paper Number," taking up very informally various phases of book marketing. While no effort will be made to cover the topics in any sense completely, we believe that these numbers will contain live matter which will give usable hints for bookseller and publisher alike.

Next week we shall have something to say, for example, on "Window Dressing," considered, of course, from a bookstore standpoint. Somewhat later a number of the WEEKLY will be devoted to "Book Advertising," both trade and retail.

NO COPYRIGHT RENEWAL BY ASSIGNEES.

THE following is text of an opinion written in the office of the Attorney-General for the Register of Copyrights:

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of December 10, 1909, with certain documents from the Register of Copyrights inclosed, from which it appears that a number of applications have been made for renewal or extension of copyrights under Section 24 of the Act of March 4, 1909, said applications being divided into two general classes, to wit:

(1) Applications made by assignees under direct assignments of the renewal or extension term from the persons named in the statute as entitled to renewals or extensions.

(2) Applications made by assignees who purchased the copyrighted work, either when the original copyrights were secured, or subsequent thereto, and who also took assignments of the copyrights.

And you ask my opinion whether such renewals or extensions can be granted at the instance of the assignees.

The privileges of copyright are purely statutory; and when one seeks a renewal or extension of a copyright, his right thereto must be found within the statute. The provisions of the Act of March 4, 1909 (35 Stat., 1075) which bear upon this question are the following:

Sec. 8. That the author or proprietor of any work made the subject of copyright by this Act, or his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall have copyright for such work under the conditions and for the terms specified in this Act:

Sec. 23. That the copyright secured by this Act shall endure for twenty-eight years from the date of first publication, whether the copyrighted work bears the author's true name or is published anonymously or under an assumed name: Provided, That in the case of any posthumous work or of any periodical, cyclopedic, or other composite work upon which the copyright was originally secured by the proprietor thereof, or of any work copyrighted by a corporate body (otherwise than an assignee or licensee of the individual author) or by an employer for whom such work is made for hire, the proprietor of such copyright shall be entitled to a renewal and extension of the copyright in such work for the further term of twenty-eight years when application for such renewal and extension shall have been made to the copyright office and duly registered therein one year prior to the expiration of the original term of copyright: And provided further, That in the case of any other copyrighted work, including a contribution by an individual author to a periodical or to a cyclopedic or other composite work when such contribution has been separately registered, the author of such work, if still living, or the widow, widower, or children of the author, if the author be not living, or if such author, widow, widower, or children be not living, then the author's executors, or in the absence of a will, his next of kin shall be entitled to a renewal and extension of the copyright in such work for a further term of twenty-eight years when application for such renewal and extension shall have been made to the copyright office and duly registered therein within one year prior to the expiration of the original term of copyright: And provided further, That in default of the registration of such application for renewal and extension, the copyright in any work shall determine at the expiration of twenty-eight years from first publication.

Sec. 24. That the copyright subsisting in any work at the time when this Act goes into effect may, at the expiration of the term provided for under existing law, be renewed and extended by the author of such work if still living, or the widow, widower, or children of the author, if the author be not living, or if such author, widow, widower, or children be not living, then by the author's executors, or in the absence of a will, his next of kin, for a further period such that the entire term shall be equal to that secured by this Act, including the renewal period: Provided however, That if the work be a composite work upon which copyright was originally secured by the proprietor thereof, then such proprietor shall be entitled to the privilege of renewal and extension granted under this section: Provided, That application for such renewal and extension shall be made to the copyright office and duly registered therein within one year prior to the expiration of the existing term.

It will be observed that Section 8 declares who may procure original copyrights; that Section 23 provides who may procure renewals of copyright secured by this Act, and that Section 24 prescribes who may procure a renewal or extension of a copyright "subsisting in any work at the time when this Act goes into effect . . . for a further period such that the entire term shall be equal to that secured by this Act, including the renewal period."

Each of these sections is specific in its terms, and leaves but little or no room for construction. In the first it is expressly provided that the assigns of an author or proprietor shall have a copyright for the work upon complying with the conditions specified in the Act. In the second it is provided that if the work be posthumous or composite upon which the original copyright was secured by the proprietor, or if copyrighted by a corporate body otherwise than as assignee or licensee of the individual, or by an employer for whom such work is made for hire, the proprietor may procure the renewal, but that in all other cases it must be procured by the author, if living, or if dead, by the widow, widower or children, or if they also be dead, by the author's executors, if there be a will, or otherwise by his next of kin; and the third section mentioned, the one here applicable, Section 24, requires the extension or renewal to be procured by the author, if living, or if dead, by the persons, and in the order mentioned in the preceding section, except as to composite works which were originally copyrighted by the proprietor, in which case the proprietor may secure the extension.

The very fact that each of these sections enumerates with such particularity the persons who may exercise the privilege of securing copyrights and having them renewed, and the order in which the right vests, and that in these particulars the sections materially differ from each other, shows that the persons enumerated are exclusive of all others, and that it was not the purpose of Congress to confer the right upon any person or persons not therein specifically mentioned.

This view is well sustained by the authorities. The Act of February 3, 1831 (4 Stat., 436), gave the right of renewal to the author, if living, or if dead, to his widow, child, or children. In commenting upon this provision of the Act and a provision of a previous Act, the court, in Pierpont v. Fowle, 19 Fed. Cases, 652, 659, said:

Both refer to authors alone and not their assigns as entitled. They do not even embrace in terms, express assignees of a second term, made before the second term begins, and the last act does not name assignees at all. So the extension allowed under the act of 1831, of a copyright taken out under the act, looks entirely to the author and his family, and not to assignees.

By the Act of July 8, 1870, Section 88 (16 Stat., 212; Revised Stats., Sec. 4954), the right of renewal was given to the author, or his widow or children if he be dead; and with reference to the right of renewal under this statute, in Drone on Copyrights, page 261, it is said:

Besides granting copyright to the author or owner of a work, and the assignee of such person, for twenty-eight years, the existing statute of the United States provides that, at the end of that term the author, inventor, or designer, if living, or his widow or children if he be dead, may secure a renewal of the copyright for fourteen years. As neither the owner of a work nor an assignee is mentioned in this section, it would seem that the copyright for this additional term will not vest ab initio in such person. But elsewhere the ground is taken, that when the renewed copyright has been secured by the author, or his widow or children, it may be transferred to an assignee.

And again on page 333:

Section 4954 of the Revised Statutes, which provides for a renewed term of copyright, makes no mention of an assignee. The view has been elsewhere expressed that the copyright for this term will not vest ab initio in an assignee, but only in the author, his widow or children. Hence, when an author has assigned his entire interest in a work, and has thereby or otherwise barred himself and his family from securing the copyright for the second term, the assignee is powerless to make the renewal for his own benefit.

However, I do not wish to be understood as approving the assumption here expressed that the author, or in case of his death, the other persons mentioned in the statute as being entitled to the right of renewal, may bar themselves of that right. Such right is created by the most explicit terms of the statute, and no recognition is there given of a previous assignment of the copyright, or a conveyance of the author's right in the copyrighted work, or of any kind of contract that he may have made with reference thereto. When the application for renewal is presented to the Register of Copyrights, the only thing left for his consideration is whether the applicant is one of the persons designated in the statute. But who may possess the legal or equitable right in the copyright after renewal is another question, and one which is to be determined by the terms of such contract as the author or other person or persons entitled to the renewal may have entered into before or after the renewal is had.

Much reliance is placed by the applicants on the case of Paige v. Banks, 7 Blatch., 152; and 13 Wall., 608, 614. The facts in that case were that Paige, the testator of the plaintiffs, had on October 7, 1828, entered into a contract with Gould and Banks, whereby he was to furnish them in manuscript the reports of his court for publication, and that they were to "have the copyright of said reports, to them and their assigns forever." Under the Act of 1790 the term of copyright was fourteen years, with right of renewal for fourteen years additional, the assigns of an author having the right to procure both the original copyright and the renewal; and on January 5, 1830, registration for the original copyright was made in the names of Gould and Banks. On February 3, 1831, an act was passed which extended all copyrights then existing to a term of twenty-eight years, with right of renewal for fourteen years longer, but the renewal privilege was restricted to the author, or if he be dead, to his widow, or child or children. When the original term expired on January 5, 1858, both Gould and Banks and Paige went through the usual forms to procure a renewal of the copyright. Paige subsequently died, and thereafter his executor filed a bill against Gould and Banks to enjoin them from further printing and vending the work, and for an account of the profits after January, 1858. The bill was dismissed by both the court below and the Supreme Court.

The decision turned entirely upon the construction of the contract between Paige and Gould and Banks, the sole question considered being whether, under the contract, Paige had parted with the entire interest in the work, this question being thus stated by the Supreme Court:

Independent of any statutory provision the right of an author in and to his unpublished manuscripts is full and complete. It is his property, is subject to his disposal. He may assign a qualified interest in it, or make an absolute conveyance of the whole interest. The question to be solved is, do the terms of this agreement show the intent to part with the whole interest in the publication of this book, or with a partial and limited interest?

And, after an analysis of the contract, the court held that,

As between the parties to the agreement the absolute interest was conveyed by the stipulation of Paige that he would furnish the manuscript for publication.

In considering the clause in the contract "and the said Gould and Banks shall have the copyright of said reports to them, their heirs and assigns forever," the court said:

It is not covenanted that the publishers should take out the copyright, nor is there any express agreement for an assignment to them by Paige, if he should take it out. Undoubtedly the provision that the publishers "should have the copyright," would authorize them to apply for it, and if Paige had taken it out in his own name it would have enured to their benefit. But as between Paige and the publishers, the rights of the latter could not be estimated differently, whether they had or had not availed themselves of the provisions of the act.

The Act of 1790 expressly provided that the assignees of an author of a work could procure a copyright thereof, and hence the statement of the court that the stipulation in the contract with reference to the copyright authorized Gould and Banks to apply for it. Therefore, the point of the decision was, that Paige having transferred his entire interest in the work to Gould and Banks, and they having thereby acquired a perpetual right to publish and sell the same, independent of the question of copyright, they could not be enjoined from its publication and be made to account for the copies sold after the expiration of the original term. The question here presented was not considered in that case, and the case is given attention only because it is cited by applicants as conclusive authority in their favor.

The comments of the committee upon Sections 23 and 24, which accompanied the bill when reported, show conclusively that it was not intended that the assigns of a work should have the right of renewal, except as specifically provided for therein. Among other things the committee said:

It was urged before the Committee that it would be better to have a single term without any right of renewal, and a term of life and fifty years was suggested. Your committee, after full consideration, decided that it was distinctly to the advantage of the author to preserve the renewal period. It not infrequently happens that the author sells his copyright outright to a publisher for a comparatively small sum. If the work proves to be a great success, and lives beyond the term of twenty-eight years, your committee felt that it should be the exclusive right of the author to take the renewal term, and the law should be framed as it is the existing law, so that he could not be deprived of that right.

Instead of confining the right of renewal to the author, if still living, or to the widow or children of the author, if he be dead, we provide that the author of such work, if still living, may apply for the renewal, or the widow, widower, or children of the author, if the author be not living, or if such author, widow, widower, or children be not living, then the author's executors, or, in the absence of a will, his next of kin. It was not the intention to permit the administrator to apply for the renewal, but to permit the author who had no wife or children to bequeath by will the right to apply for the renewal.

In the case of composite or cyclopedic works, to which a great many authors contribute for hire, and upon which the copyright was originally secured by the proprietor of the work, it was felt that the proprietor of such work should have the exclusive right to apply for the renewal term. In some cases the contributors to such a work might number hundreds and be scattered over the world, and it would be impossible for the proprietor of the work to secure their co-operation in applying for the renewal.

It readily appears how the right of renewal may be a valuable asset to an author, though he may have previously parted with all interest in the copyrighted work. When renewed, like all other copyrights, it is assignable (Sec. 42 of Act; Drone on Copyrights, 333). And no doubt it may be the subject of a valid contract before renewal which would carry the equitable if not the legal title thereto, when renewed. And, therefore, the owner of the work who, after the expiration of the original term, would be without protection, would, if the work be a valuable one, gladly pay a reasonable price for the extension. At any rate, the right of extension was clearly given for the benefit of the author, and the provision should not be construed against him, unless the language of the statute clearly requires such construction, which it does not.

It is not intended in this opinion to determine any question of law which relates to the relative rights of authors and their assigns, and such rights are mentioned only by way of illustration or argument. The matter here for determination is one solely for the guidance of the Register of Copyrights in granting renewals of copyrights; and, for the reasons above stated, I hold that he should be governed by the language of the statute, and grant a renewal to no one other than the person or persons mentioned therein. The applicants here in question are the owners of the works by purchase, and assignees of the original copyrights, and in some cases have taken assignments of the renewal terms. But in neither case does the statute authorize the extension to be made in the name of the assignee, and the applications should, therefore, be disallowed.

Respectfully,

J. A. FOWLER,

Assistant Attorney General.

BOSTON HERALD IN RECEIVERSHIP.

ON petition of the International Paper Company, Judge Colt Thursday appointed John Norris, of New York, an official of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, and Charles F. Weed, an attorney of Boston, receivers of the Boston Herald Company. Including a bond issue of $1,700,000, the indebtedness is about $2,200,000.

The court authorized the receivers to issue $50,000 in certificates to enable the business to be continued.

The Boston Herald was established in 1846 by E. C. Bailey as an evening paper. Twenty years later Mr. Bailey purchased the morning Times, edited by John H. Holmes, and the two were published morning and evening as the Boston Herald. Mr. Bailey died, and Mr. Holmes retired from the Herald several years ago, after it moved from Newspaper Row into a modern building on Tremont Street. At the present time the company publishes morning, evening and Sunday editions.

The Herald's troubles are said to be due to "a great diminution of its receipts following upon the business depression of the years 1907 and 1908, which particularly affected the said company because of its large fixed charges resulting from the issue of bonds and an insufficient supply of cash as working capital." The petition further stated that there is every reason to believe that a continuance of the business will ultimately show large profits.

It is understood that the suit is a friendly one, with a view to reorganization.

CHICAGO BOOKMEN FISH AND PLAY.

THE Publishers Club of Chicago gave its annual three days' fishing outing and held its regular election of officers at the Fishing Inn, Silver Lake, Wis., June 24-26. A large number of members with their families and friends enjoyed the outing and participated in the many amusements, including dramatic, athletic and social, that had been arranged.

Silver Lake is one of the beauty lakes of Wisconsin, where boating is delightful and fishing good. To this place The Publishers Club takes its members each year, where for three days they may enjoy all the sylvan and aquatic pleasures that Wisconsin nature can provide, and all the amusements and good things to eat and drink that cunning bookmen can devise.

The silver loving cup that the club offers each year to the member catching the biggest game fish was awarded to Charles P. Weil.

The annual baseball game between the "fats" and the "skinny" of the club was won by the "fats," the score being 6 to 5.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, David B. Clarkson; vice-president, Thomas Devereaux; treasurer, M. H. Vestal; financial secretary, M. J. Slavik; recording secretary and scribe, Fred S. Miller. Those elected directors were: E. H. Lapham, of A. C. McClurg & Co.; Gordon G. Sapp, of National Publishing Co.; B. F. Hitchens, of J. C. Winston Co.; Frank W. Black, of Frank W. Black Co.

The club was organized for social purposes only nearly a score of years ago. There is a provision in the by-laws to the effect that no administration is permitted to retire from office with any money in the treasury, under such severe penalties as the resourceful members may be able to inflict. Banquets, ladies' nights, stags, picnics, boat excursions, smokers, etc., in addition to the annual fishing outing, are therefore given throughout the year in an effort to obey this severe by-law. These events are known as the most enjoyable that take place in social club life in Chicago.

A QUERY.

CAN any reader of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY give us any information regarding the present owner of the copyrights of works formerly published by George (?) Gebbie, of Philadelphia? We are under the impression that Gebbie was at one time associated with Barrie, a firm issuing elaborately illustrated books. We believe that Mr. Gebbie is dead, and that his death followed some time after his severing his business connections with Mr. Barrie.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & CO. MOVE.

ON or about July 20 George W. Jacobs & Co., of Philadelphia, will move their retail store to 1210 Walnut Street, and in future the retail portion of their business will be conducted under the name of Jacobs' Bookstore.

The publishing business of George W. Jacobs & Co. will on or about the same date move to 208 West Washington Square. This portion of the business will be conducted under the same firm name as heretofore.

This change of name was considered desirable in order to differentiate the retail from the wholesale business and to render more effective the prompt dispatch of orders entrusted to either department. There will be, however, no change of ownership. Both the retail business and the publishing business will, as heretofore, be owned and managed by George W. Jacobs and John T. Robinson.

THE TRAVEL MAGAZINE SOLD.

The Travel Magazine, which went into bankruptcy about two weeks ago, was purchased Thursday, with all of its effects, by McBride, Winston & Co., publishers of the House and Garden Magazine, 449 Fourth Avenue, New York City. The price paid was approximately $10,000, of which $9250 was for the good will. The new owners state that the Travel Magazine will be continued as a separate publication under the same name. Its editors will be Gardner C. Teall and Henry H. Saylor.

COMMUNICATIONS.

SUBSCRIPTION SETS.

NEW YORK, June 29, 1910.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

IN his efforts to substantiate his charge of misrepresentation Mr. Abiscott cites the Scribner subscription editions of Kipling and Stevenson and the Houghton subscription editions of Emerson and Hawthorne as being "quite different from those sold by department stores in these sales," a fact which has no bearing whatever on the subject. No one has claimed they are the same as Scribner's and Houghton's Editions. Our catalogue and advertisements describe our editions accurately and the stores sell them without any need or desire to misrepresent. Moreover, in case of dissatisfaction for any cause the stores guarantee to refund money, a safe guard against misrepresentation not offered by book agents, as we all know.

Regarding his ridiculous charge that ours are not genuine subscription editions which have been sold by book-agents at high subscription prices, any of our customers will testify that Mr. Abiscott writes either with pitiable ignorance or with malicious disregard of facts. As conclusive proof, which many can corroborate, on this point we quote with permission Mr. H. Baruch, buyer for Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, of Birmingham, who called upon us this week in a very resentful mood after reading Mr. Abiscott's letter. Mr. Baruch advertised "that subscription book houses get four or five times these special sale prices," and to prove his statement he actually secured from private buyers and exhibited in his book department the identical sets sold by book agents in Birmingham.

We do not deny the extravagant or fictitious prices of subscription publishers, for which we are no more responsible than we are for "the $1.50 novel which neither author, publisher nor bookseller ever expects or intends shall be sold at $1.50."

Contrary to Mr. Abiscott's statement the truth is that the Denver house referred to was so successful with our sets last fall that it renewed its agreement for the spring sale, which was also successful. We have not heard that its business was "killed" or interfered with by a rival store and we rather fancy that we can count upon its hearty co-operation in our extensive plans for the coming season. Possibly the firm will have a word to say for itself.

The most absurd misstatement of all, and one which trade gossips dearly loved to repeat until they found their backbiting injured themselves more than us, is that we pay the advertising bills. The several hundred leading firms, all of whom signed the same uniform agreement to do advertising at their own expense, know the falsity of any statement to the contrary. Almost equally erroneous is the claim that our stock is sent on "consignment." The truth about this is that it is bought and paid for, but at stated periods we exchange stock for the accommodation of our customers. Furthermore, any firm desiring to relinquish its exclusive selling privilege (which seldom happens) has had the privilege of returning stock, thus leaving us free to make an exclusive selling agreement with another firm in the same city.

W. D. LANE.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DR. WILLIAM JAMES ROLFE, of Cambridge, author and Shakespearean scholar, died Thursday at the home of his son, Charles J. Rolfe, in Tisbury, at the age of 83. William James Rolfe was born at Newburyport, Mass., graduated from Amherst College in 1849, and Amherst College conferred the degree of Doctor of Letters on him in 1887. He was married in 1856 to Eliza J. Carew, of Dorchester, Mass. From 1852 to 1868 he taught in the high schools as headmaster at Dorchester, Lawrence, Salem and Cambridge, Mass. He was the author of "The Satchel Guide to Europe," which he revised yearly; "Shakespeare the Boy," "Life of Shakespeare," which formed volume 22 of the New Century edition of Shakespeare, and other works. He edited a complete edition of Shakespeare and Tennyson, most of Browning's works, and selected poems of Macaulay, Scott, Goldsmith, Gray and Milton for use as standard school and college text-books. He was a steady contributor to magazines and reviews. Dr. Rolfe was regarded as the foremost Shakespearean scholar in this country. Three sons, Professor John Rolfe of the University of Pennsylvania; Professor George Rolfe and Professor Charles J. Rolfe of Cambridge, survive him.

CHIEF JUSTICE MELVILLE WESTON FULLER, for twenty-two years head of the United States Supreme Court, died on the morning of July 5 at his summer residence, Sorrento, Me., of heart disease. Chief Justice Fuller was born in Augusta, Me., February 11, 1833, was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1853. He held degrees of LL.D. from Northwestern University, Bowdoin College, Harvard University, Yale University and Dartmouth College. He was appointed Chief Justice of the United States by President Cleveland in 1888. It was under him that the impetus was given to the anti-trust laws, and he was intensely interested in the cases bearing on the right of the Standard Oil Company and the American Tobacco Company to continue business. These cases were argued during the last year, but there was not a full court, and the remaining members were so evenly divided that it was decided to order a re-argument.

FREDERICK JAMES FURNIVAL, eminent scholar and editor of the Oxford Dictionary, died in London on July 2. Dr. Furnival was born in Egham, Surrey, in 1825. He was a founder and director of Early English Text, Chaucer, Ballad and New Shakespeare Societies, also founder of Wyclif, Browning and Shelley Societies. He worked with F. D. Maurice and Thomas Hughes in the Christian Socialist and Co-operative movement. He was a vigorous controversialist, a man of great individuality, an earnest advocate of spelling reform, and of the hard labor of research in obscure byways. He was also an enthusiast in athletics and a strict vegetarian.

PROFESSOR CYRUS THOMAS, one of the most eminent authorities on the history of the North American Indians, and for the last thirty years connected with the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, died at his home in Washington on June 26, at the age of eighty-five. He had written many books on the Indians, most of the works relating to the prehistoric aborigines. He was also an entomologist of note, having been for several years state entomologist of Illinois, and in 1876-1877 a member of the United States Entomological Commission. He was a native of Tennessee. He studied law and was at the bar till 1865.

PROFESSOR GIOVANNI VIRGINIO SCHIAPARELLI, famous astronomer and discoverer of the supposed canals on the planet Mars, died at Milan on July 4. Professor Schiaparelli was born at Piedmont, Italy, in 1835, studied at the University of Berlin, and then became assistant in the Observatory of Brera at Milan. He discovered the planet Hesperia, and established his reputation by the discovery of a relationship between the paths of certain comets and showers of shooting stars. Schiaparelli retired from the observatory in 1900. He is the author of many important books and monographs on astronomy.

REV. DR. ADOLPH SPAETH, one of the leading ministers and theologians of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in this country, died from heart disease on Saturday, July 2, in Philadelphia. Dr. Spaeth was born at Essen, Germany, in 1839; he graduated from the University of Tübingen in 1861. Besides being a theologian and pulpit orator of extraordinary powers, Dr. Spaeth was widely known as an author of books on religious subjects and of hymns. Before he came to this country he had been a tutor in the family of the Duke of Argyle, in Scotland.

DR. CHARLES A. WHITE, scientific associate of the late Professor Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution, member of many scientific societies in this country and Europe, and author of numerous scientific publications, died at his home in Washington, Thursday, June 29, aged eighty-four. The greater part of his writings were on geology and palæontology. Dr. White, who was born at North Dighton, Mass., was for a time Professor of Natural History in the Iowa State University and in Bowdoin College.

CAPTAIN ROBERT MARSHALL, the well-known English dramatist, died in London on July 1. He was born at Edinburgh June 21, 1863. Forbes-Robertson, John Drew and Annie Russell acted the leading roles in his plays "The Shades of Night," "The Duke of Killiecrankie" and "A Royal Family." "The Second in Command," "His Excellency the Governor," "The Lady of Leeds," etc., are also widely known.

MRS. EMILY E. BRIGGS, who did noteworthy work in the sixties as a newspaper correspondent, died in Washington this week in her eightieth year. She was the author of the "Olivia" letters, written from Washington during the Civil War.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JEANNETTE MARKS, author of "A Holiday with the Birds" (Harper & Brothers) and other books, has sailed for a long-desired European vacation.

BURTON E. STEVENSON, author of "The Cadets of Gascony" and "At Odds with the Regent," sailed in May for Europe, where he and Mrs. Stevenson will spend the summer. They will return in September in time for the publication of Mr. Stevenson's new book, which will bear the imprint of the J. B. Lippincott Company.

JOHN REED SCOTT was in Philadelphia recently consulting his publishers, the J. B. Lippincott Company, in reference to a novel upon which he has been at work for some time, to be issued in the fall. During the last two winters Mr. Scott has made his home in Annapolis, the scene of the new book, the period being late in the eighteenth century.

JUSTUS MILES FORMAN, who sailed for Europe after the publication of his latest novel, "Bianca's Daughter" (Harper & Brothers), a few weeks ago, writes to his friends that he has decided to settle in England for the summer. Mr. Forman, together with Norman Hapgood, has taken a quaint country seat in Surrey, adjoining the summer home of William Faversham. The name of Mr. Forman's place is Hazelridge.

E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, the novelist, is preparing to come to America for a visit to the home of his American wife near Boston. Mr. Oppenheim has written friends in this country that he has given up his business interests to devote more time to travel and writing. His latest novel, entitled "Havoc," which he has just finished, will receive its first publication in this country in serial form in The Smart Set Magazine, beginning with the September issue. The Smart Set promises with this story an enlargement of the magazine. Serials are also a new departure for Smart Set.

THE report that Henryk Sienkiewicz had planned to visit America to attend the meetings of the Polish National Congress does not appear to have been authentic, for the famous Polish novelist sent no acceptance of the invitation he received to be present. It will be recalled that the author of "Quo Vadis," "Whirlpools," etc., once visited this country. He was one of a little band of Polish patriots, among whom were Mme. Modjeska and her husband, Count Rozenta, who bought a ranch in California and started what might be called a Polish Brook Farm. It was a co-operative society, but as all its members were geniuses, it suffered for want of practical management. Sienkiewicz did not remain long in this country, but went back to Poland, where he published a few short stories with America for their background.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A NEW volume of stories for children is to be brought out by the Frederick A. Stokes Company under the title of "Stories from Old French Romance." These include such mediæval delights as the tales of Aucassin and Nicolette, of Constans the Emperor, Roland and Oliver, the death of Roland, Ogier the Dane and the Castle of Montauban.

AMONG the first birthday honors of King George V. was a baronetcy for Adolph Tuck the present head of the well-known house of Raphael Tuck & Sons. Sir Adolph Tuck had just sailed with his wife and daughters, Sybil and Muriel, after a visit to the Canadian and American branches of the house when the news came by cable.

DR. JAMES MORRIS WHITON, of the Outlook, has published through Thomas Whittaker, Inc., New York, and James Clarke & Co., London, a new volume of essays entitled "Interludes in a Time of Change; Ethical, Social and Theological." Ambassador Andrew D. White in a published opinion regards it as most striking and calculated to make a deep impression upon thinking men.

EDWIN L. SABIN, who wrote the successful juvenile last year called "Bar B Boys," has completed a second book entitled "Range and Trail." This will be brought out very shortly by Thomas Y. Crowell & Company. The same characters appear as figured in the previous work, but a different side of the cowboys' life is depicted. In this book the crew drive a herd up from Texas, and lively happenings along the trail make up the story.

FOR the first time in its more than two hundred years of existence Yale University bestowed an honorary degree upon a woman at its recent commencement exercises. The recipient was Jane Addams, the president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, head of Hull House, Chicago, and the author of a number of books of sociological interest. Her latest book, "Twenty Years at Hull House," will be published in the fall by the Macmillan Company.

THE many readers of "The Wood-Carver of Lympus," now in its twenty-fifth printing, will look forward with interest to Mary E. Waller's new book, "Flamsted Quarries," to appear early in the autumn. The story deals with present day conditions of American life—social and industrial. The heroine is the child of Irish immigrants; the scenes of the book are laid in New York and at the granite quarries of Maine.

How to get through the Custom House without hurt to your temper, conscience or clothes; how to get good servants, be just to them, and keep them; how to get money if your train goes off with your baggage and leaves you in a strange town; how to keep a check book easily and accurately are all problems in which women are interested. These and a hundred other similar subjects are taken up in "Every-Day Business for Women" (Houghton Mifflin Co.), by Mary A. Wilbur.

A song book especially for boys, containing the songs that boys like, and arranged particularly to suit their voices, is a new idea. It has been embodied by Chapman & Whiting in the "Apollo Song Book," which Ginn & Company have just published. The publishers of this collection call particular attention to its attractive cover and size, its convenient grouping under topics, and to the writing of each part on a separate staff, in the octave in which it is to be sung—a feature which will facilitate reading and assist musical interpretation.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have selected "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner" to be Willy Pogány's new color holiday gift book for 1910. It will be 12½ x 9 inches like the "Rubáiyát" issued last season. The book will have twenty four-color full-page plates enclosed within delicate borders, and the title-page is printed in nine colors and gold. There will be three editions: an ordinary edition, a velvet Persian yapp edition, and a limited edition numbered and signed by the author, printed on Japan vellum and bound in full leather.

JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have just issued "The Court of Alexander III," a book made up of letters written from St. Petersburg by Mrs. Lothrop, wife of the late George Van Ness Lothrop, who was appointed Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary to Russia in 1885 by President Cleveland. The letters have been edited by William Prall, author of "Civic-Christianity," etc., who believes that in view of the recent changes which have taken place in the Czar's government the sidelights shed by this volume will be of value.

SELFRIDGE'S new American department store in London has, from its start, been noted for the quality, tact and originality of its advertising. Their latest scheme, expressed in a facsimile typewritten letter to all their customers, is an offer to send a London daily newspaper, in which "valuable" Selfridge advertising appears, regularly free of charge at the customer's request. It is probable that the paper suggested in the letter as the best choice (though the customer is not limited to it) is co-operating in this circulation-building advertising project.

ERASMUS TURNER HARRIS, 12-14 West 32d Street, New York City, manufactures books for publishers and dealers with special reference for sending books by mail or prepaid express at book rate. Single volumes or sets of books are sent direct from bindery to the dealer's customers or are shipped in bulk by freight. Among the masterpieces of literature now ready are a ten-volume Kipling, Poe and Shakespeare, a nine-volume Stevenson, a six-volume Victor Hugo and Abraham Lincoln, an eight-volume Guy de Maupassant, a two-volume Bryce's "American Commonwealth," as well as dictionaries, Bibles, standard classics and cook books.

THE 1910-11 volume of that indispensable reference book, "Who's Who in America," has just appeared. Typographically unchanged, it presents that increase of bulk which we have complacently come to look upon as inevitable. To be exact, there are 17,546 entries in this volume, of which 2831 are new. 1680 names in the 1908-9 volume are omitted (974 because of death), leaving a net increase of 1151 names. The added bulk of new material has necessitated, despite every advantage offered by rigid condensation and thin paper, the omission of some former data, among them the "Key to Publishers," which was begun in Volume II.

EVERY one who has observed the "chugging" of the automobile motor or the engine of the noisy motor-boat will welcome the idea that it may soon be possible to have a gasoline motor which, while running at thousands of revolutions per minute, will be silent, smooth and powerful in action. The possibilities of such a motor lie in the development of the gas turbine, and in a new book, the first yet written upon this subject, Henry Harrison Suplee has gathered such information as is now available. This book, entitled "The Gas Turbine," has recently been published by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish immediately a monograph upon the life, work and system of the late Edward MacDowell which cannot fail to be of great interest and value to all students and lovers of music. The character of the musician and of his work, his aims and ideals are sympathetically interpreted by the author, Mrs. Elizabeth Fry Page. Her sympathetic poems illustrative of the MacDowell compositions are distinctly helpful in bringing the student or auditor into intelligent harmony with the composer, while the description of the Peterboro colony and the aims sought to be realized there under the supervision of Mrs. MacDowell is also a very interesting feature.

ADMIRERS of the work of the late Mrs. Craigie, otherwise "John Oliver Hobbes," whose premature death, four years ago, was so widely lamented, will be greatly interested in the announcement that a volume of her literary correspondence, compiled by her father, John Morgan Richards, will shortly be published by an English house. Mrs. Craigie was not only a writer of exceptional gifts, but a woman of marked individuality and great intellectual and personal charm. Among her distinguished contemporaries in the world of letters she had many close friends, not a few of whom were among the recipients of the letters which have been selected for publication in the promised volume.

THE month past has seen important developments in the department store world. The absorption of Lord & Taylor by the H. B. Clafin Co. was followed by the incorporation of the May Department Store Co., a $20,000,000 combination of the May Company in Cleveland; the Schoenberg Mercantile Co. (the Famous) in St. Louis; the May Shoe & Clothing Co. in Denver, and the May Real Estate & Investment Co. of St. Louis. Gimbel Brothers, of Philadelphia, have taken formal possession of their new New York store, facing Greeley Square at Broadway and 33d Street, and the new Wanamaker store in Philadelphia is practically completed. The latter building is twelve stories high and has forty-five acres of floor space.

TEACHERS of history will welcome a book just issued by Longmans, Green & Company. This is "A Bibliography of History for Schools and Libraries," by Charles M. Andrews, J. Montgomery Gambrill and Lida Lee Tall. The value of the work is greatly enhanced by the descriptive and critical annotations which give unbiased judgments of the books listed. The same house has also ready "The Governance of Empire," by P. A. Silburn, member of the Legislative Assembly of Natal, a colonial's opinion as to the policy the Home Government should adopt toward its colonies. Two books of poetry are "A Son of Cain," by James A. Mackereth, author of "In Drasmere Vale and Other Poems," and Sophie M. Sherlock's "Eve and Other Poems."

UNDER the title "Courtship Under Contract" J. H. L. Eager has written a novel dealing with the science of selection, in which the heroine, who has pronounced opinions on the subject of eugenics, presents a plan for courtship by cohabitation that will enable the woman to know with a good degree of certainty the character—not his reputation alone—of a man by whom is awakened in her heart what she believes is love. It offers relief from unhappy marriage and the divorce evil sought for by the author of "Trial Marriage," avoiding the repugnant objections to that plan. The scene of the story is placed in New York City and its characters are every-day people. The work will be issued by the Health-Culture Co., St. James Building, New York.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just issued "The Unexplored Self," by the Rev. George R. Montgomery, assistant minister of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, New York City. This is an attempt to give the content of Christianity as stated by Christ and as unfolded in the New Testament. For immediate publication they have "Ribbon Roads," by A. T. and B. R. Wood, in which is given an account of a motor trip of some 8000 miles through the British Isles, Holland, Germany, Italy and France, a vivacious and authentic account of a region rich in annals, legends and stories; and Mary R. Diefendorf's "The Historic Mohawk," from which may be learned much of this section of the country from the time of the savage through the era of the picturesque stage coach.

THE last conference of the editors of the commemorative tercentenary edition of the English authorized version of the Bible adjourned at Princeton, N. J., on Tuesday of last week. The work is now nearly completed, and what remains will be accomplished by a sub-committee of editors which has not yet been announced. The purpose of the committee is to bring out a new edition of the King James version, correcting obsolete words, infelicitous expressions and misleading translations. The American committee, which is acting jointly with an English committee of seven clergymen, has been working under the general supervision of the Rev. C. J. Scofield, D.D. The new edition will be printed by the Oxford and Cambridge University Press in England in May of 1911, 300 years after the printing of the first edition of the Bible.

STURGIS & WALTON COMPANY announce that after considerable delay Raymond L. Ditmars's "Reptiles of the World" is ready. The author, who is the curator of reptiles of the New York Zoological Park, brings a wealth of scientific knowledge and experience to bear upon his subject, while the illustrations, nearly two hundred in number, all of them from photographs taken by Mr. Ditmars himself, are of the greatest value for purposes of identification. A volume of practical information as to the care of every room in the house is "From Kitchen to Garret," by Virginia Terhune Van de Water, is also just issued by this house. As Mrs. Van de Water is a daughter of Marion Harland, domestic science is a kind of birthright to her. Anna Costantini's "Ragna," recently published by this firm, will shortly make its appearance in Paris in a French translation.

Two new books from Anatole France, published this week by John Lane Company, will be hailed with great interest. These books, "The Elm-Tree on the Mall" and "The Wicker-Work Woman," are among the most entertaining of Monsieur France's recent productions. They show his keen understanding of human nature and his remorseless cynicism. The priests who play such a prominent part in "The Elm-Tree on the Mall" will delight many readers, and give an excellent idea of the present relations between church and state in France. Many of the same characters appear in "The Wicker-Work Woman," with the addition of the Latin professor, Monsieur Bergeret, and his wife Amelie.

A book which is likely to cause a stir in German and international political circles has made its appearance in Berlin. It is from the pen of Herr Rudolf Martin. He is a well known writer on aerial warfare, but latterly has become the mouthpiece of an influential group of politicians who are still bent on blasting the reputation of Prince Buelow, the former Chancellor. In "Deutsche Machthaber" (wielders of power in Germany) Herr Martin essays to portray "the Kaiser and his friends as they are." He describes the celebrated Daily Telegraph interview with the Emperor as a "swindle" engineered by Prince Buelow. Herr Martin accuses the ex-Chancellor of betraying his Imperial master and of deceiving the Reichstag and the nation by allowing it to be believed that the Daily Telegraph interview was the Emperor's own act. The interview never took place, but the Kaiser repeatedly wrote to Prince Buelow from Highcliffe castle giving him particulars of his table-talk with various friends there. The book contains a remarkable account of a conversation between the Emperor and Prince Buelow, in which his majesty taxed the Chancellor with betraying him over the interview, Prince Buelow denying the charge with tears in his eyes.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CARTHAGE, N. Y.—The E. F. Otis Bookstore has been sold to Eon Lewis and Lena Burns. The former owner, E. F. Otis, still operates his variety stores at Thousand Island Park and Alexandria Bay in the summer, but instead of coming to Carthage in the fall he will go to Florida, where he will carry on a similar business each winter.

LAFAYETTE, IND.—The Jaques-Mueller Co., of Lafayette, and the R. M. Southworth Co., of West Lafayette, have combined under the firm name of the Jaques & Southworth Co., with stores at 334 Main Street, Lafayette, and 308-10 State Street, West Lafayette. Though under the same management the accounts of the two stores will be kept separate.

LAWRENCE, KAN.—The Stevenson Book Co. is in the hands of a trustee.

MANCHESTER, MASS.—Albert W. Hyde has just opened a book shop in the basement of the "Doughnut" house, Bridge Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Italian Book Company has been incorporated for printing and publishing; capital stock, $100,000. The incorporators are F. Tocci, A. De Gaudenzi, A. De Martino, New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Mail Order Library Corporation has been incorporated by William L. Berkwitz, Bedford Park; Russell H. Fenn and Marie L. Fenn, Tompkinsville, to publish and sell books, magazines, etc.; capital stock, $25,000.

NEW YORK.—The Colonial Art and Historic Co. has incorporated to deal in books, engravings and works of art, with a capital of $50,000. Incorporators: E. J. Forhan, J. J. Harper and G. F. Martin.

NEW YORK CITY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Paris Modes Company, of 36 West 24th Street, publisher of Paris Modes and Paris Fashion Plates and Patterns, show liabilities of $405,039 and assets of $23,417, consisting of cash in banks $3664, cash on hand $571, notes $1557, accounts $2600, stock, $2525, and proceeds of sale, subscriptions, advertising contracts, etc., $12,500. Among the creditors are Thomas J. Gaines, Jr., $318,000; West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, $28,059; Wynkoop-Hallenbeck-Crawford Company, $24,120; Finch-Pruyn Company, Glens Falls, N. Y., $4509; Charles Francis Press, $3667; Elliott Company, Boston, $2498, and Maurice O'Meara Company, $2402.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.—T. Cooney, Jr., for twenty years with George H. Blatchford, is about to open a new book and stationery store at 194 North Street.

SAN JOSE, CAL.—Henry Martin has repurchased the book and stationery business which he recently sold.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The business of Frank Simmons, it is announced, will be closed out, the creditors to receive the proceeds pro rata.

PICK-UPS.

RULES FOR WRITERS.

When the situation clamors for a pardonable lie, Please begin your observation with "As No One Will Deny."

With a modest little, bashful little effort to deceive, Kindly use the introduction, "We Have Reason to Believe."

When the information's doubtful, be no whit dismayed thereat, Finding refuge in the sentence, "'Tis an Open Secret That.—"

You may search the very marrow of your controversial foes With that phrase of cold disparagement, "As Every Schoolboy Knows."

And a fraud will seem as pious as a missionary tract With the prefatory label, "It is an Undoubted fact."

So, by paying close attention to a few such rules as these You will speedily be able to prevaricate with ease. —Puck.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Of special note to those interested in the bibliography of music is John Towers's "Dictionary-Catalog of 28,015 Operas and Operettas Which Have Been Performed on the Public Stage," published by the Acme Publishing Co., Morgantown, W. Va. Mr. Towers has had a long musical experience, and this work is the result of sixteen years' compilation. In number of entries and especially in American representation it renders obsolete the formerly standard compilations of Riemann, Clément, Dassori, etc. The price is $25, adequately printed and bound in full morocco.

Books Wanted

Under this head booktrade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, repeated matter, and all advertisements from non-subscribers, cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noticed.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm-name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withdrawing their use from irresponsible advertisers, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

A NEW BOOK

A LIVE SELLER

ROOSEVELT AMONG THE PEOPLE

By Addison C. Thomas

A work which graphically presents the great American in his true role of "Defender of the People's Faith"—giving official verbatim reports of his speeches and documents on the live topics of the hour. The author, for many years assistant general manager of the Associated Press, has been in close touch with Mr. Roosevelt and public men generally, and has produced a book at once unique and valuable.

You Won't Know Roosevelt Thoroughly Until You Have Read This Book

Directories for the Booktrade

1. A Directory of Public Libraries in the United States and Canada, containing over 1000 addresses of the more important ones, each with the name of the librarian, total number of volumes in library, total accessions during 1909, yearly income, and amount expended for book purchase during the past year. Nothing better in the way in a select list has ever been attempted.

This directory is part of the "Annual Library Index, 1909." 8vo, cloth, $5.00. Not printed separately.

2. A Directory of Booksellers in the principal towns of the United States and Canada, with their specialties noted (including the names of Department Stores that sell books), with street addresses in large cities. It eliminates the names of drug stores, cigar shops and newsdealers that sell periodicals and paper bound books only. No better selected list has ever been printed.

This directory, printed with interleaved blank pages for annotations, forms part of "The Annual American Catalog, 1909." 8vo, cloth, $3.00. Not printed separately.

For $3 you get the latest "Annual American Catalog of Books," with the Directory of Booksellers and the Directory of Publishers.

For $5 you get the latest "Annual Library Index," with the Directory of Libraries.

Reference List of New Publications

JANUARY-JUNE, 1910

SEMI-ANNUAL CUMULATION, JANUARY 1-JUNE 25, 1910

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. The figures in parentheses are not the imprint date, but refer to the date of "The Publishers' Weekly" in which full title entry will be found and not to the day of publication, for which information should be sought in the full title entry thus indicated. When month only is given in parentheses this is the original entry and title will not be found in Weekly Record.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

The School-Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

TERMS FOR IMPRINT EDITIONS

100 Copies $5.00 500 Copies $22.50 1000 Copies $40.00

 Can we interest you? If not familiar with the "Educational List" write for a sample copy.
